THE SHINN CASE.—The Corporation Court room was crowded to day to hear the trial of the charges of embezzlement against Geo. R. Shinn. The former prominence of the accused and the large number of persons concerned, that, in order to constitute larceny, the goods lept additional interest to the case.

The Commonwealth was represented by its attorney, J. M. Johnson, esq., and the accused show that there was any corporation under the by Messrs. Charles E. Stuart and Edmund law, and consequently it could not legally hold Burke.

Mr. Stuart, of counsel for the accused, moved the Court to compel the Commonwealth's Attorney to consolidate the charges for offenses which had occurred within six months of each other, on the ground that they were the same general offense, and had the same punishment. The Court overruled the motion, and the defense accepted. Mr. Burke, of counsel for the accused, moved the Court to compel the Commonwealth's Attorney to elect on which count of the indictment he would proceed, on the ground that grand larceny, the same offense, was charged in each count.

The Court overruled the motion, and exception was taken.

Mr. Stuart then demurred to the indictment and to each count thereof, on the ground, first, that grand largeny and embezzlement could not is included in one indictment; secondly, that d three separate and distinct offenses the

The venire were then called.

J. C. Milburn was excused from service, having been a grand juryman when the indictment was found. J. F. Muir was excused, as a relative of the ecused. H. C. Field was excused, being a special policeman.

Isaac Ruld was excused on account of family cor section with the accused. The jury were then sworn on the voice dire ud the Court informed them of the charge against the prisoner, and asked them whether they had formed or expressed an opinion. C. C. Smoot said that his sympathies were with the prisoner. The Court held that this did not excuse him.

Cornelius Cox was excused, he having formed and expressed an opiniou. The jury as finally constituted was as fol-

Counsel for the defense objected to the charge. The Clerk then wrote out the charge and read it to the jury, instructing them as to the different grades of crime upon which they could find a verdict.

The defence then objected to that charge. Commonwealth's Attorney, Johnson, opened Str Lady of the Lake, Norfolk, to F A Reed. for the prosecution. He recited the law, as Str Lady of the Lake, Norfolk, by F A Reed. Which he expected to prove. The first two counts charged that the check was received in an official capacity as Secretary of the Building Association, and the third count that he received it for the Association.

He expected to show that this check was paid to Shino by Avery in payment of money due the Association by him, and that it was never turned over to the Treasurer of the Association, as required by the law, but was converted to his (Shinn's) own use,

Mr. Steuart, for the defense, said that he felt the responsibility of his position; he appeared for a man who had stood as high as any man in this community. He left this community with no indictment against him and was brought back, over 1,000 miles to find charges against him, which were not justified by any law on the statute books. He defied the Com monwealth's Attorney to prove that the Eccused had ever failed in any respect to discharge his duty as Secretary of the Building Association. He claimed that the embezzlement of the check could not be proved, because it was made payable to his order and he had a right to endorse it. He (Shinn) had no right to receive this cheek as Secretary of the Association, but every man who paid him mocey did so as a private citizen. Mr. Stuart recited the circumstances under which the accosed left the city. He said he was unable to give bail and was nowilling to lie in jail for several months; could be have been able to remaio at home this whole matter could have been settled at once without any indicament or trial. He did not think that a verdict of guilty could be asked or granted. The witnesses were then called, E. S. Leadbester testified that he was Prosident of the Alexandria Building Association, and knew the accused, who was Secretary thereof.

Mr. Stuart, for the delence objected, on that to Dr. It C. Powell, for $205. Commonwealth ground that the articles of incorporation must come either from the General Assembly or the Circuit Court, neither of which appeared in the paper presented. Mr. Johnson claimed that the Association was formed under the act of ot 1852, and a subsequent amendment in 1866, which did not

Mr. Stuart further objected that the articles of incorporation should have been recorded in the counties of Alexandris and Fairfax, as well

Mr. Burke further objected that the articles Association, but merely by the officers of a Association, See Association which did not resist at the time, corporation which did not resist at the time, Mr. Johnson claimed that the signatures of RANBERBIES.—Another lot of choice the officers were all that was necessary, and | Cape Cod Berries, received this day, Feb. read authorities to sustain his opinion.

The mere accidental fact that nobody outside of the city had applied for loans, was no reason why the law should not be complied with. The Association could not be divided. If it was a corporation in the city, it must be one in any portion of the Commonwealth.

THE NARROW GAUGE RAILROAD. -The Washington Union says: A committee consisting of Mr. Adams, the contractor of the new narrow gauge railroad, and Mr. Clark, a prominent stockholder and official in the company, called upon Mr. Joseph Nicholson, of Georgetown, Monday night. They had a long conference with that gentleman, and included in one indictment; secondly, that they make the following propositions: If the obszzlement law was unconstitutional as it citizens will make a subscription of $50,000, the city will be allowed to appoint a director and the treasurer of the company. West Virginia's Share of the State

In the matter, at least, of West Virginia's proportional share of Virginia's indebtedness, it looks as if the republican party of this State were determined to win for themselves a record the democracy to the blush. The convention which framed the constitution of 1861, and which was overwhelmingly republican, put into the constitution, which was emphatically the bandiwork of the republican party, a clause deprior to the first day of January, in the year 1861, shall be assumed by this State; and the Legislature shall ascertain the same as soon as may be practicable, and provide for the liquidation thereof." Under that constitution steps were actually taken to ascertain what was West Virginia's "equitable proportion of the public debt of the Commonwealth of Virginia." The glaring defects of that constitution, however, framed by a group of bitter republicans, called loudly for reform, and accordingly another con was elected in 1871, and framed our present constitution. Although this new constitution is without doubt a vast improvement upon the one which it superseded, yet it is most remarkable that a democratic convention should purposely have omitted to pledge the honor of our newState to the payment of a fair share of a debt for the payment of which the State is jointly bound in honor with Virginia. Nor do we remember a single prominent democrat of our State who has, in any public utterance, advocated a payment by West Virginia, of even a proportional share of that debt which was contracted partly upon the faith of West Virginia's honor and wealth. bitter and prospective wing of the republican party, declares in his lecture at the West Virginia University, that unless this State makes some provision for the payment of an equitable share of Virginia's indebtedness, she will have a stain upon her honor which will never be effaced. It must be admitted that in this decla ration Senator Willey has expressed a sentimen in perfect accord with the actions of the party of which he is certainly a representative member. In this matter, at least, the democracy of this State has been taught a lesson in good morals, by which, it is to be hoped, the party will profit. - Spirit of Jefferson.
